Description

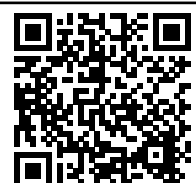

A fine glass Victorian caddy bowl for the mid Victorian period. This lovely example would have come originally from a wooden tea caddy and the bowl was used for blending and mixing the tea leaves - not as a sugar bowl as is often mistakenly stated. It has a raised foot with polished pontil mark and the straight sides are cut with stars and spheres. The rim is also cut. A good collector's piece usable as a bowl for any purpose. P&P contribution £8.00 UK £16.00 Worldwide Condition :- Excellent, with no chips or cracks. Origin :- English. Date :- c1860. Height :- 11.5 cms. Base diameter :- 8.5 cms. Body diameter :- 10 cms.
