Description

A very fine quality Regency period mahogany six drawer partners writing table / desk. Having a lovely old faded tooled leather insert with mahogany crossbanded and moulded edge over three mahogany lined cockbeaded drawers to each side all with brass knob handles and central locks. The sides are recessed panelled and held by ornately carved end supports united by a ring turned stretcher with the whole being raised on finely carved lion paw feet having recessed brass castors. This is a very good quality example of Regency partners library table in excellent condition and having a wonderful colour and leather. These well proportioned and large Regency desks are becoming increasingly hard to source and are rarely available on the market in this condition. This table also comes with a good provenance.
