Description

Absolutely stunning Victorian vanity box dating from 1870. The outer of the box is made of the finest quality Coromandel Wood - a very expensive and beautiful wood only used on the best items. The top is domed; both very unusual and very beautiful for a box like this. It has a brass engraved plaque on the top and a matching escutcheon around the key hole. Inside, the box is fully fitted with 10 glass bottles and pots, all with matching engraved sterling silver lids. The silver is hallmarked for London 1870 with the maker's mark of William Neale. The glass bottles all have star cut bases and the three scent bottles even have their original glass toppers below the silver lids. There is a blue velvet lift out tray in the centre which holds a set of accoutrements including a button hook and corkscrew, all with matching mother of pearl handles. The main interior of the box lifts out to reveal further storage space beneath to store items such as brushes or combs. The lid of the box houses a mirror. It is backed in beautiful blue velvet and there is a catch in the lid which releases the mirror so it can be turned around to display the velvet when not in use. Behind the mirror ...
