Description

This antique flame mahogany sideboard is in good original condition & it's quite unusual to find one of this period. I would date it to around the 1830-40's William IV period. The drawers have been lined at a later point with baize, which looks okay, so I haven't touched that part. The figuring in the wood is lovely as is the original colour & patina. It still has the original turned bun handle & it sits on fluted turned legs. I believe the locks are original & I particularly like the middle bottom drawer. This sideboard is very good quality & it's not that large either. Width - 60.3", 153 cm Depth - 22", 56 cm Height - 37", 94 cm
