Description

Early C19th Regency period inlaid rosewood fold-over card or gaming table raised on sabre legs. Stylish 'D'-shaped rosewood card table with box-wood and ebony line inlay. Double rear gate-leg action and with the apparently original 'blind-tooled'-edge green baize inset playing surface. Raised on shapely, well-drawn exaggerated 'sabre' form legs, and fitted with original brass box castors. The corners of the top inlaid with box-wood scrolling lines and motifs. The tops of the leg stiles with diamond-shaped motif inlay, the legs with box-wood line inlay. The friezes with ebony and box-wood line inlay. Well-figured rosewood veneers throughout. The whole table has achieved a consistent mellow patina. Elegant 'high' Regency design, probably Scottish. Excellent original colour and condition with no breaks or repairs. Perfectly flat top with no warping. The polished top with minor indentations commensurate with age, use and purpose. H 29" W 35" D 17" Scotland c.1815
