Description

Beautiful leather chair dating from the late 19th Century. It is a good comfortable chair, very well made and a fine example of excellent Victorian workmanship. It serves as a fantastic desk chair but could also be a library or hall chair. It has a lovely shape with a curved back and turned legs terminating in delicate pad feet. It has a padded leather seat and leather back. It is in excellent condition for its age. It has developed a lovely aged patina and is structurally very sound. It is not without a few small marks here and there but nothing untoward for a chair of this age. The leather is in good condition with no major splits or tears apart from a small repaired tear which I've photographed. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask.
