Description

A well designed and finely carved 19th century mahogany center table standing on cabriole legs circa 1880. Of elegant form this late 19th century table has a solid mahogany rectangular top with a moulded and carved edge over a Greek key design frieze with central carved floral plaques with ornate beading below. Raised on four cabriole legs with finely carving acanthus leaf decoration to the knee terminating on ball and claw feet. This antique tale has been polished using traditional methods and is offering in excellent condition with a good rich mahogany colour. Of great shape this stunning table looks far better in the flesh!
