Description

Here is an excellent quality Victorian compactum wardrobe, made by James Shoolbred of, Tottenham House, Tottenham Court Road, London, in the 19th century. c1890. Made of solid walnut and having two sections. The left section has two doors, one door having the original bevelled mirror, opening to reveal four large mahogany slides, which are over a mahogany chest of drawers, having two short drawers over two long drawers, which are very wide and deep, so giving a vast amount of storage space. The right section has a hanging space with shelf above, having a sliding metal hanging rail and original wooden-peg hooks to the back and sides. We would be happy to add a hanging rail above where the mahogany slides are situated, so then slides could be removed, thus giving more hanging space if required. The doors are decorated with the most delightful carved panels of the utmost quality and craftsmanship. Standing on a plinth base. Having all the original locks, door catches, and brass handles. Superb warm colour and patination to the walnut. Bearing an enamel plaque for "James Shoolbred & Co" The condition is very good antique condition, with minor expected general signs...
