Description

This is an unusual Circa 1920's wall lantern in that it has a bird on the top - possibly an Eagle? Made completely in brass, we have only lightly polished it because our customers prefer us to leave things as they are, it has six panels of glass with one opening easily for access to the lightbulb. The lantern measures 56cm in length, the wall bracket is 11cm in length and has screw holes for easy fitting to a wall, and the glass panels measure 16.5cm in length, 8.5 cm in width at the top and 6.5 at the bottom. Our electrician has completely rewired the lantern to comply with UK specifications. The price includes postage and packing within the UK mainland only and for delivery elsewhere, please contact us.
