Description

A George III Cuban mahogany three tier dumb waiter on tripod base and original leather castors. With a superb patina to the mahogany this example is constructed in three sections. The top tier is attached to the top column section and unscrews by means of a wooden thread to release the middle tier. The column below also unscrews by the same means in order to release the bottom tier allowing for slightly different configuration should it be required as a two tier piece. Unusual to find an original piece with its leather castors. Circa 1760

Internal Ref: 291
