Description

Superb Welsh settle of very small proportions, in native oak with sycamore panels. The back has three rectangular panels with beaded edging flanked by square and simply-shaped arms and supports, over a solid seat above a cupboard base accessed through the right hand hinged panel, and raised on stile feet. The right hand back panel is hinged (although now fixed) and probably formed a secret door to a "cupboard" made from a hole in the fireplace wall behind. Wonderful colour and surface patination. (Rear legs built up). Mid-Wales, circa 1720. Height: 35 inches; 89 cms. Width; 37 inches; 94 cms. Depth to front of arm: 19 inches; 48 cms.
