Description

Lovely 1930s Art Deco figural female dancer on a alabaster base. Although was originally intended as an ashtray its had little to no use at all so would make an ideal trinket dish for jewellery or perhaps a tray for keys on a hall stand. She's made from cold painted spelter and is also in excellent condition with just minor signs of patina giving her age away, this adds to its charm we feel. She stands at approx. 17cm including the marble ashtray.
