Description

A mid Victorian Admiral Fitzroy barometer in a magnificently exotic extremely rare WALNUT case in the Gothic style. The barometer has all its original printed dials, scales and instructions for the syphon tube, storm glass and thermometer as well as a check valve on the back to the syphon tube for portability. The case has a concave moulded drop finial to the base and an ogee shaped cresting, moulded and open fretted with carved scroll and foliate decoration. Height 4ft 7ins (140cm). This domestic barometer is a 'top-of-the range' example from the period in fine condition complete with vernier adjustment pointers to record rising and falling in atmospheric pressure.
