Description

The Arts and Crafts movement started in England in the latter part of the 1800s and continued into the early 1900s. This set of 12 chairs are really rather special, we don't ever recall having a set like this in the last 40 years. The odd chair of course we have had, but 12, no! They are in a used condition and as we keep getting asked for something a little rustic we have decided that these will stay as they are unless someone would like us to restore them. We will however before they leave our premises undertake some rejoining where maybe half a dozen joints are a little loose. The seats are all in rush and are in perfectly useable condition, some have been re-rushed in the recent past. The legs are supported by stretchers as can be seen in the pictures and note the rather appealing double stretcher between the front legs. They look good these chairs and would go fantastically well in a large conservatory perhaps or maybe in your French Chateau. In an unrestored condition they are very keenly priced at only £1500, that's only £125 per chair. If you look on most web sites you will see a single chair at twice this price or more, there is a big premium on a set of 12 so ...
