Description

A beautiful Wedgwood sauce tureen with lidded cover and stand. Dating from the mid Victorian period the tureen is decorated in underglazed blue with a pretty floral pattern within a stylised border. The lid is topped by a fabulous finial of furling leaves. There is a minute hairline crack where the ladle would sit, however this is difficult to see as it is so small. Please refer to the photographs. The tureen bears clear Wedgwood impress marks for 1872. This is a highly sought after Wedgwood piece. It would add elegance to any dining table or collection of blue and white pottery. Dated 1872 Height: 6" (15cm) Width: 8.25" (21cm) Depth: 6" (15cm)

Internal Ref: D283A
