Description

A superb burr walnut dressing table in the Queen Anne style. Of excellent construction by the renowned firm "Hille of London". It is made in solid walnut with stunning burr walnut veneers onto a mahogany carcass. The tryptich dressing mirror is fully adjustable with the two end mirrors swinging in and out and the central mirror that can be tilted up and down. It is fitted with its original beveled glass plates; it can be removed from the table if desired. The top of the mirror is surmounted by a crisply carved crest. The table itself has a lovely serpentine shape to the front and an elegant curved back. It is finished all round so could be free standing within a room if desired. There is an arrangement of one long central drawer (embellished with a carved crest) flanked by two shorter end drawers each fitted with their original brass handles. The top surface of the table is fitted with an inset glass top. The whole table stands on strong and elegant cabriole legs with decorative carvings to the knees and feet. We have had this lovely table sympathetically cleaned and waxed in our workshops. It now has a wonderful colour and patina. It is offered for sale in overall excellence.
