Description

An original oak high back armchair by the renowned designer Charles Rennie Mackintosh. From the arts and crafts period and more specifically the Glasgow school as pioneered by Mackintosh. Well made in solid oak with all of the characteristic design features you would expect. The "C R Mackintosh" stamp is located on the back rail at seat height. This is a rare opportunity to acquire an original Mackintosh piece. The armchair is in very good original condition, with a good mellow colour and patina. It stands well, free from all wobbles. Dimensions: Width 57cms Depth 47cms Overall height 107cms Seat height 46cms CHARLES RENNIE MACKINTOSH (1868-1928) was one of the most significant figures in the history of Arts & Crafts Furniture, and a major influence on the Art Nouveau movement. A talented architect, designer and artist, he was central to the development of the Glasgow Style of design. He had few clients, yet his distinctive stained glass panels elegant Victorian dining chairs are known the world over. Mackintosh was apprenticed to architects Honeyman and Keppie in 1889, also studying at the Glasgow School of Art. His first major architectural commission was the Glasg...
