Description

A George II Period Mahogany single drop leaf side table, the rectangular top opening to reveal a large well, the drop leaf supported by both swing out legs on a double gate action, the cross grain frieze raised on turned legs with pad feet. Circa 1750 H:27.5" 70 cms, W:32", 81.5cms, D:16.5<32", 42 < 81.5 cms. Attribution: Although tables of this sort, occasional tables, would have been made by a number of cabinetmakers throughout the United Kingdom, there are several strictly comparable examples by Alexander Peter of Edinburgh made for Dumfries House. This single drop leaf table may well be a typically Scottish model being called "bedroom table" in the bills from Peter to Lord Dumfries. Lit: See Dumfries House sale catalogue, July 2007, Vol.I, Lots 128 page 308 and others.
