Description

This large antique solid mahogany revolving bookcase is a good size & very robust. It's in good original condition, with plenty of character & a nice patina. These revolving bookcases are very practicable & surprisingly hold a lot of books. Some of these examples can be quite flimsy, but this one is very well made. It has the original iron support between the base & the top section (not showing in the images) & still has the original porcelain casters. I would date it to around the 1890 period. Width & Depth - 23.7", 60 cm Height - 28.3", 72 cm
