Description

Antique William IV mahogany Davenport in good condition & of the highest quality, dating from around the 1830-40's period. This piece has many great features, so please enlarge all the images to see them all. Having said that, the main feature is not even showing, because we forgot to use it when photographing. The top section slides forwards so one can put their knees under the writing surface. This is a very important feature & we will try to photograph & add it on soon. The pen tray on the side is also not showing open & there is also a secret drawer somewhere. This Davenport has a pierced brass gallery, a tooled leather writing surface, 2 pull out slides either side, brass handles inside & out, original locks on all the drawers & it sits on strong flat bun feet with concealed casters underneath. It also has a nice interior under the flap & is panelled front & back. Width & Depth - 23.7", 60 cm Height - 33.3", 85 cm
