Description

This handsome kneehole Sheraton revival desk dates from the early 1900s. In really good condition it would be a welcome addition to most homes. The inlaid banding is on each drawer front and around the top, this boasts a new leather skiver with a tooled edge. This is black so it does not conflict with your colour scheme. This is a little longer than many of similar proportion thus giving a little more working space, the middle drawer will take a lap top if that is your computer of choice. This mahogany desk has a good size kneehole for your legs and it is 56cms wide by 60cms high. A good clean and very useable desk, ready to go into service.
