Description

This is an antique buffet a deux corps, French dating to the late 18th century, c.1780. Crafted in stout fruitwood stock finished with yew wood. Desirable colour with good grain interest and a beautifully aged patina. Country kitchen appeal in a polished wax finish. Raised on continuous plinth base. Canted corners to upper and lower cupboards. Generous crown moulding. Internal shelves in solid thick planks. Pin hinges to cupboard doors. Lower section: Three drawers over a pair of field panelled cupboard doors. Dovetailed drawers dressed with later brass pulls. Carved wooden lock escutcheons. Iron locks with keys absent. Single shelf within dividing space into two. Upper Section: A pair of field panel doors. Carved wooden lock escutcheons. Working lock and key. Inside a pair of shelves divide the space into three. A super example of French country furniture. Large and heavy with solid joints and construction. Delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
