Description

Charming country oak side table with single drawer on classic tapering legs. It has a planked top with an attractive curved front and brass handle. It is in good original condition with a beautiful rich patina. It is strong and sturdy and the drawer runs well. There are normal signs of age but it is a good honest little table. There are some historic woodworm holes around the legs which have been treated as a precaution. They haven't affected the table structurally or aesthetically. The brass handle has also been changed at some point. The table has been cleaned and strengthened and given a light wax and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions please ask.
