Description

An impressive late Victorian compass dating to around 1890 set in a hinged mahogany block measuring 4" square. It has a shapely blued-steel needle engraved N & S for clarity, with a paper dial divided into degrees and also showing all the points of the compass. Fastened with an attractive pair of 7 shaped brass clasps, this is a nice clean compass, with both crystal and dial in fine order, and a working transit lock activated by lid closure. The interior of the lid is signed by the famous Welsh Clock maker and Optician, Speridion & Son, Cardiff. Excellent condition measuring 4" x 4" x 1" with a glass having a diameter measuring 3 1/2".
