Description

C.H.LEVY: a well modelled and fine quality 19th century French BRONZE SCULPTURE entitled "Faneur" (literally the 'layabout'). The young farmworker, dressed in hat and knee-length breeches, rests temporarily from his hard work on his scythe. It is fully signed to the base with title and a separate foundry mark. An impressive and "strong" bronze. 17ins high (43cms). ***Charles Octave LEVY (1820-1899) was born in Paris and exhibited there from 1873-1899. However, much of his best sculpture was sent directly to America without every having been exhibited in the Salons.
