Description

A good fine set of mahogany dining chairs from the early 1900s. These chairs, in a popular Hepplewhite style are a set of 8, six plus two carvers. They are in good condition, Joints are good and seats are all in leather, clearly they have not been abused since being reupholstered. Polish may be bit dark for todays taste but it is very typical of the period. The shape is most appealing and the front legs have a reeding down the edges and a splay foot. What is certainly most appealing is the price. A set of Eight mahogany chairs like this, especially having the pair of carvers, could easily be around the £2000 mark. this set is nice and clean and most useable, available for only £945 as they are. The backs of the chairs are 37ins tall, dimensions below relate to the seat. We have tables available too. There are always around 20 to 30 tables and sets of chairs in stock.
