Description

Beautiful antique X-Frame Stool dating from the mid 19th Century with a newly covered upholstered seat. The stool is excellent quality with a simple yet elegant design, standing on carved x-frame ends with central turned discs, united by a turned central stretcher. The seat has been newly upholstered in a good quality fabric with a light blue floral design on a cream background. It is in very good condition for its age. The new upholstery is clean and tidy and the wood has a beautiful rich grain and has been waxed to retain its natural aged patina. There is a small old chip on one of the discs on the frame but it isn't detrimental. The wood is free from any major knocks or splits and is overall a good sturdy construction. It displays beautifully and is ready for the home. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions at all please ask. Nationwide delivery £30.
