Description

Good C19th Italian carved walnut 'Gobbo' sculpture of great charm; from the renowned 'Eric Bramall Collection'; the standing figure leaning forward with his hunchback, and hands clasped behind his back, dressed in traditional costume with his intricately carved ruff collar; having the unusual feature of standing on a carved rug with scrolled decoration and a slight wavy edge; raised on a plinth base. Good colour and patination. The underside retaining label "Eric Bramall Collection D/15". Eric Bramall was a renowned theatre puppeteer and antiques collector. The carving is probably Launcelot Gobbo from Shakespeare's 'Merchant of Venice' Italian circa 1860 Excellent condition Dimensions (ins) 29 high x 13.75 wide x 10.5 deep
