Description

Francis Dodd, 1874-1949 Portrait of Charles Prestwich Scott 1846-1932 Signed/Inscribed: and dated "Dodd 1916" pencil on paper 35 x 27 cm. (13.3/4 x 10.3/4in.) working drawing for the oil on canvas portrait in the Manchester City Art Gallery Acseion number : 1978.180 bequeathed by Mrs Alice Olga Scott, 1978 Literature etching, 1916 NPG 3997 Notes Charles Prestwich Scott, (1846-1932), newspaper editor and proprietor, was born at Bath on 26 October 1846. He was the eighth child and fourth son of Russell Scott (1801-1880), a partner in a coal company, and his wife, Isabella Civil, daughter of Joseph Prestwich, wine merchant. Scott's upbringing was Unitarian. He attended Hove School, Sussex, run by a Unitarian minister, and Clapham grammar school. He also, for reasons of health, spent a period with a private tutor on the Isle of Wight, the Revd Arthur Watson. Despite religious obstacles, in 1865 he secured admission to Corpus Christi, Oxford, immersing himself in a full university life—including rowing and debating—and graduating BA in 1869 with a first class in literae humaniores. Thereafter, he habitually looked to Oxford for recruits to his staff. Scott's choice ...
