Description

A magnificent mahogany sideboard from the late Regency/early William IV period, of very generous proportions. Of fine construction in solid mahogany with attractive flame mahogany veneers. Pine drawer linings denoting that this piece is probably of Scottish origin. The large mirror back is surmounted by a splendid carved, scrolling crest. The mirror itself is completely clear, free from blemishes. The sideboard has a pair of pedestals flanking two long central drawers. The bottom central drawer is of considerable depth. Each pedestal has a "freeze" drawer to the top, sitting over a cupboard door. The cupboards open to reveal generous storage capacity in the form of internal drawers and a celarette. The pedestals stand on glorious lions paw feet and the cupboard doors are decorated with carved detailing and stylised acanthus moldings. We have had this piece sympathetically cleaned, polished and waxed in our workshops. It has a splendid colour and patina and is offered for sale in overall excellent condition.
