Description

GILLOWS of LANCASTER: a typically good quality William IV or early Victorian rosewood TEAPOY in superb condition. The solid and well-figured rosewood lid opens to reveal two large tea canisters and the original pair of cut-glass sugar bowls. It is supported on a well carved column with gadrooned 'collar' leading to a quadrapartite base and melon-carved feet with original castors. 17.5 x 13ins; 29.5ins high. A teapoy was a table used to store and serve tea and sugar. Clearly not used as such today, they are however ideal as a useful and inexpensive side table that also provides storage.
