Description

This mahogany toilet mirror dates from the first part of the 19th Century. In lovely condition with superb graining in the timber, it can sit on a chest of drawers, dressing table or anywhere one might feel the need to admire oneself. It is a nice fine example with the slim barley twist uprights to support the mirror and the two cushion drawers to store all those needed bits and pieces. It is a sensible price too in this condition and for this kind of quality. There are a selection of suitable bases, chests and tables on our web site.
