Description

Size: 5ft 10in x 3ft 4in (178 x 102cm). Antique Ersari Turkmen chuval of very large size, with unusual turreted gul design. Late 19th century. This most unusual and scarce chuval is one of a pair, the design features two large turreted guls surrounded by six chuval guls. There are four half guls at the edges of the chuval. All of the guls contain silk highlights in pink and green silk. The elem is of the small shrub design, or as it is often called 'dancing ladies', this design is found on chuval by both the Ersari and Saryk Turkmen. The chuval is finely woven with excellent wool, it is complete with its original plain weave back. This chuval was without and doubt woven for some one of great importance. possibly a unique pair of chuval and highly collectible. The pair to this item is stock number D-0640. They are priced individually but I would be happy to discuss a special price for the pair. Outstanding condition with very slight even wear. Hand washed and ready for display. D-0639.
