Description

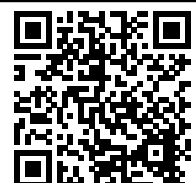

George II period mahogany kneehole dressing-table by Elizabeth Bell of London; the oak-lined drawers with moulded edges and their original brass pierced-plate handles; the centre arch-drawer applied with the printed trade-label of 'Elizabeth Bell & Son, at the White Swan against the South Gate St Paul's Churchyard...' Elizabeth Bell took over the business of her husband Henry on his death in 1740 and worked in partnership with their son Philip until 1758, during which period this dressing-table was made. The Bell family regularly labelled their work and a number of pieces survive and are recorded in the Dictionary of Marked London Furniture. John Beazor Antiques is a family firm, established in 1875 and based in Cambridge since 1940. We are a traditional antiques shop, but very much in the 21st century. We deal in 18th and early 19th century furniture, barometers and clocks. We choose our stock for its originality and for the quality of its colour, patination and design. We are members of the BADA. We do not exhibit at fairs preferring to deal from our Cambridge shop where we hold an Open Weekend every November. Open 9.00am – 5.00pm, Tuesday to Friday, 10.00...
