Description

Here is a fine quality antique Edwardian oak 4ft wide freestanding roll top pedestal desk, circa 1910, in good original condition, made in England with solid oak and a walnut interior. The desktop has been constructed from good quality oak and the exterior of the desk features inset oak panels. This desk features 13 internal compartments, along with two large drawers and 2 small pen trays. Interestingly, the drawer fronts are constructed from good quality walnut. Constructed with an "S" shaped design to the top section, the desk was designed to be freestanding in the centre of a room. The sliding tambour can be lifted up to reveal a bank of internal drawers and compartments. The pigeonhole drawer linings are constructed of walnut and boast fine dovetail joints. When the sliding tambour is pulled down and secured using the original lock and key, the secret locking mechanism is activated to lock the pedestal drawers. Please note, the central drawer was not designed to lock. When the sliding tambour is opened again, this deactivates the locking mechanism. The original tambour lock and key are in good working order. The original escutcheon plate is stamped "Entir...
