Description

A very good early wall clock in a dark mahogany case with a 12" Convex dial, cast brass bezel with integrated lock, fine heart shape hands and a substantial fusee movement. Knight of Coggeshall were fine clockmakers in the early to mid 1800's. The business was owned by the Father and Son. Joseph Knight would have made this clock circa 1830. It really is a very good example with great profiles to the Mahogany and Brass bezel.
