Description

Extremely Fine Marquetry Satinwood Demi Lune Console Table by Hampton & Sons of Pall Mall London. An extremely fine marquetry inlaid satinwood console table of Neoclassical design stamped "Hampton & Sons of Pall Mall East 737" circa 1890 Constructed of a fine well figured West Indian satinwood with Neoclassical inlay, reminiscent of Robert Adams work, the demi - lune shaped top crossbanded in goncalo alves with boxwood stringing having a central Grecian Urn with swags and garlands of the highest standard. The border frieze is intricately inlaid with central pendant and swags and garlands housing a single drawer to the middle retaining its original brass knob and stamped to the inside by the famous London cabinet makers "Hampton & Sons of Pall Mall East 737". Supported by four finely tapered legs inlaid with bellflower husks united by a lower tier crossbanded and inlaid with a central patrea and foliate design. The whole being raised on brass ball feet and in excellent condition having been finely restored using traditional methods with an excellent colour and patina. Of the finest quality this superb console table is very rare to find especially in such wonderful condi...
