Description

A really fine quality English silver plated tray by a quality Sheffield silversmith, James Dixon and Sons. This impressive tray spanning 31" handle to handle x 18" is beautifully decorated with a plethora of Fern engravings, very Victorian and very English. The centre retains the original family armorial crest, this tray would have belonged to an important family. The handles are extraordinary with cast ferns incorporated into the design; the excellent construction is evident from the underside of the handles. The underside is fully marked for the silversmith and in addition there is a design registration diamond, this configuration was used between 1868-1883, a true Victorian example. Top notch quality and in excellent condition. Item ID:38938 FREE Worldwide Registered Airmail Directly From London, England
