Description

This mahogany bookcase is a particularly good looking example. The flame mahogany graining is just the start, with attractive corbels both top and bottom and the well detailed arches to the bookcase top. The glass doors even have a rather neat little cross rail, also boasting some pretty little carved detail. This bookcase / display case from the reign of Queen Victoria has the original glass and an operational lock. It is in really good condition and has good colour and graining as can be seen in the pictures. A particularly good example in a condition that really requires no further attention as it has been cleaned and refinished in our workshops. You will not be disappointed in this.
