Description

This finely coloured and superb quality antique console, side or serving table stamped W.Williamson & Sons, Guildford dating to the early 19th Century George IV period circa 1820-1830. Having excellent provenance formerly belonging to Lord and Lady Sonja Hollenden and furnished their Grade II Listed Mansion at Hall Place, Leigh. The solid mahogany top of splendid original colour and patina having a gadrooned carved edge above a fluted frieze retaining a blind frieze drawer stamped W. Williamson & Sons, Guildford, raised on moulded chamfered legs with scrolled spandrels to each corner. This is a rare and fine quality antique serving or side table which can also be used as a console table. The timber is a very choice cut of mahogany which has one of best natural colours and patina we have seen for a long time. A delightful table stamped with an excellent provenance (as you can see below) in superb original condition having been gently wax burnished to retain the wonderful patination and colour to the top. William Williamson & Sons were cabinet makers and upholsterers in Guildford, Surrey between 1790 to 1840. A number of high-quality pieces of stamped furniture have been...
