Description

A large and impressive late George III mahogany WALL CLOCK in perfect working order. The case is typical of the early couple of decades of the 19th century with its narrow moulded solid mahogany surround and deep concave bezel holding the original glass in place. The eight-day fusee movement is of "A" frame construction with conventional anchor escapement and pendulum, whilst the 14-inch dial retains its original paintwork in good condition. A splendid and impressive wall clock. 17.5ins diameter; 7ins deep.
