Description

This fine antique mahogany bureau bookcase is of very high quality & is in excellent original condition. It also has many fine features, so please enlarge all the images. The front section is a very strongly patterned flame mahogany. The top has a dental cornice, with two astral-glazed doors below & adjustable bookshelves inside on built in grooved supports. The cross banded fall opens down & is supported by two pull out loafers. The writing section inside is stunning with a stepped interior of shaped drawers, pigeon holes & a central cupboard. The tooled leather writing surface looks like it could be original & has a wonderful colour. All the drawers have original locks, brass handles & fine dovetails. It sits on bracket feet & it separates into two pieces for easy transportation. This bureau bookcase has lovely small proportions, plus a great colour & patina. I just need to take another look at it, because I can't work out yet if it's 19th or 18th century. Width – 30.3?, 77 cm Depth – 24.5?, 57 cm Height – 81?, 205 cm
