Description

A handsome and rare antique early Victorian/ late Regency rise and fall piano stool in very good condition. A really stylish stool standing on an elegantly scrolled mahogany tripod legs with turned stem and carving to the feet. All original with beautiful colour and patina to the mahogany, in good condition with no breaks or mends. With original wooden screw thread and brass collar. The upholstery is a rexin/faux leather which is also in good condition – although would benefit reupholstery. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Very good condition. All original with beautiful colour and patina to the mahogany, with no breaks or mends. With original wooden screw thread which works – it needs a little help to rise (a little lift when screwing up). The upholstery is a rexin/faux leather which is also in good condition – although would benefit reupholstery. Dimensions: Height (highest): 50cm Height (lowest): 45cm Seat Depth: 36cm Legs Width: 48cm
