Description

This fine carriage clock by Bourdin has a very well engraved dial mask and shows the alarm dial below the six and is signed to the center. The movement has been fully dismantled and overhauled/serviced, as has the case and we have polished the glass inside and out. The case is the usual high quality construction of Bourdin and we have several photos of the case in pieces if you are interested. This clock strikes the hours on a bell and one blow of the bell for the half hour. If you are looking for a good carriage clock by a very well respected maker, this Bourdin dating to around 1870 is superb!
