Description

A very decorative 19th Century lead bird bath with a scantily clad nymph standing on a rocky base, supporting a large scrolling shell. The condition is good, there is some evidence of wear to the base, this is not detrimental and is as can be expected of an item exposed to the elements for over 100 years. This beautiful bird bath has acquired an excellent patina and would be a charming and decorative focal point in any garden. c. 1890 Height: 28.5" (72.5cm) Depth: 15" (38cm) Diameter of base: 11.5" (29cm)
