Description

Georgian style wing chair in Khaki tweed material Here is your opportunity to own this Georgian style wing chair. The wing chair has been completely upholstered and covered in a Khaki tweed material. The colour is darker than in the images , the images that show the wing chair material darker is a closer representation. The chair is of a good large size. This wing chair would have been made in the 1920's and made in the Georgian style. It stands on cabriole legs with pointed toes, the legs are joined by the attractive block and turned stretchers. This wingchair has a good large seating area and so very generous in size. Imagine sitting back and relaxing in this fabulous chair, we have put in extra lumbar support when we upholstered this chair to make it even more comfortable to sit in when you are winding down after a long day. Imagine your family and friends wanting to get to sit in it first!!! When this chair was first made in the 1920's, the owner may well have sat in this chair reading about the world news of the day. The League of Nations held its first meeting in Geneva, Switzerland. Agatha Christie's first mystery was published. The Reparations committee fix Germa...
