Description

~ French - Circa 1850 ~ ~~ Excellent condition, fully overhauled ~~ A fine and early original antique French ormolu (fire gilded bronze or bronze doré) clock by Japy Freres and retailed by Rollin of Paris. The clock depicts a charming scene of children playing with their pet birds, beautifully modelled with finely chased detail. It is mounted with exquisite Sevres style porcelain panels, finely painted with scenes of children on a pompadour blue background. It is exquisitely detailed and of excellent quality, the original gilding is in stunning condition with hardly any wear and has a lovely bright and clean finish. The dial is enamel on copper with a blue hour ring and a separate black minute ring. The original hands are finely fretted gilt brass and the bezel is cast as a floral swag. This type of clock does not have a glazed bezel. The French movement is of high quality and has both the early Japy Freres 'Gold medal' clockmaker's mark and also the retailer's mark of Rollin Paris on the backplate. It is the earlier version of Pendule De Paris movement with outside hammer return spring. The clock case unusually has the movement serial number stamped into it confirmi...
