Description

Edwardian oak spindle back revolving desk chair Here is your opportunity to own this Edwardian oak spindle back revolving desk chair. This desk chair has a striking look, the oak being a lovely golden colour, then add to that the finely turned tapering spindle back, and finally the antiqued leather brass stud edged padded seat. Standing on an oak cross base with china rolling wheels under. This desk chair revolves on it patent cast iron mechanism. The seat is covered in our leather that has been hand dyed and then given an antique finish, before each brass stud has been individually tapped in. Our own craftsmen have restored the finish and also upholstering the seat, to bring this chair back to as good if not better condition to when it was first made. The design of this chair makes it very comfortable to sit at, and also it looks superb to the eye. Imagine the admiring looks and comments you will get from family and friends as they enviously cast their eyes over it. You will see many oak desk chairs on the internet, they will not compare to the colour, design and finish of this lovely example. 84cms high (33ins) 65cms wide (25 1/2ins) 61cms deep (24ins) 44cms between arm...
