Description

This is a late Georgian antique press cupboard, an English oak housekeeper's cabinet dating to circa 1780. Attractive dark tones and desirable aged patina to the English oak. Appealing panelled construction standing upon spurred bracket feet. Large proportions offering voluminous storage. Later hand carved initials and a date for the carving 'W.E.' & '1827'. Large, twin field panel doors to the main cupboard. Dressed with brass pulls and featuring the original iron lock and key. Inside the space is divided into three by a pair of shelves. Cupboard locates into a deep moulding on the lower stand. Decorated with a row of five field panels. Two drawers to the foot featuring a pair of brass swan neck handles to each. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
