Description

A lovely and very fresh watercolour on paper by John Baragwanath KING (1864–1939). This village scene is signed lower left, and measures 25 x 38 cm (that is the watercolour alone, measured without the frame). It is presented in its original frame - the framed is 39 x 51cm. Born in Cornwall, the artist trained first as an engineer before turning to art, and exhibited in London, Manchester and Paris. He lived at 'Westbourne', St Austell, but had a studio in Plymouth. Some of his work was purchased by King Edward VII.
